FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

KC MAN SENTENCED IN SERIES OF ARMED ROBBERIES

KANSAS CITY, Mo. – Todd P. Graves, United States Attorney for the Western District of Missouri, announced that a Kansas City man was sentenced today for his role in a conspiracy that involved a multi-million dollar series of robberies at several jewelry stores and other businesses in the Kansas City metropolitan area.

Nathaniel Kenny, 34, of Kansas City, Mo., was sentenced this morning by U.S. District Judge Ortrie D. Smith to 22 years, 6 months in prison without parole. The court also ordered Kenny to pay $1,131,144 in restitution to Meierotto's Midwest Jewelry. Kenny was found to be a career offender, Graves said, based upon his two prior convictions for crimes of violence.

Kenny was among four defendants convicted by a federal jury on March 7, 2001. He was found guilty of one count of conspiracy, one count of robbery affecting interstate commerce, and one count of carrying a firearm in a crime of violence. Those charges, Graves said, were in relation to the February 24, 1997 armed robbery of Meierotto's Midwest Jewelry, 4311 Northeast Vivion Road, Kansas City, Mo. Approximately $1.1 million worth of jewelry was stolen in that robbery.

Kenny was among nine defendants indicted by a federal grand jury on January 4, 2000 and in a superseding indictment on July 18, 2000, Graves said, on a series of charges related to a conspiracy to commit 11 armed robberies of jewelry stores and other commercial businesses in the Kansas City metro area since 1996. Three defendants pleaded guilty prior to trial, and four, including Kenny, were convicted by a trial jury on March 7, 2001. One defendant was acquitted and one defendant remains a fugitive.

According to Graves, evidence presented at trial showed that Kenny and three co-defendants had various roles with each other and with other defendants in planning or executing robberies or fencing stolen goods taken in a series of armed robberies in the Kansas City area
